

I. INTRODUCTION

1.1. The Background of Study

Life is a choice. Thinking of life is the first step toward a better life. Therefore, seeking and choosing the life is the one of fundamental things for human life. Option is something that is dichotomous. To that, the human life is faced with two thing: that is the feeling of sad and happy, In order to achieve life to be meaningful it should start from the individualself. The Meaningful life would not be possible without thinking what is really life, that is by questioning some questions among others how is life and how to continue life for the next time. Those questions can determine whether the life is really meant to someone.

Martimor J. Adler (1984) says, “ living a good life-becoming happy –is one goal to which every one aspires. In this connection, we may and perhaps should give thought to our virtues and vices. To be able to live in a good society and in a well –governed state is something we all wish for ourselves”. Furthermore Dr. john Gray ( 2006) says , “Anything that makes you feel good is always going to be drawing in more . Your choice whether you want to take it and utilize it, if it feels good. If it doesn’t feel good, then let it go, find something that feels good, that resonates with your heart.

Actually life is not always perfect, there are people born with a physical disabilities, and with a mentally good, there are people also born physically normal but mentally sick. In other words, everyone must be grateful to what she/he has. Unfortunately not all the people can accept the fact that their existence, desire un appear before their eyes. No matter how they are now. No matter whether they are born normal or disabilities in a physical body. In this connection, life is not like what is expected or desire .For example what is described in his book, Nick has told about the story of his physical disabilities and the emotional battle he endured while learning to deal with them as a child, teen, and young adult, Nick also has shared how his faith in God has been his major source of strength, and he has explained that once he found a sense of purpose which inspires others to better their lives and the world around them. Yet he found the confidence to build a rewarding and productive life without limits.
